

FALSE FLAG OPERATION

What is a false flag operation? There are a variety of answers that can be found on the internet. It comes down to your worldview and the source you consider dependable.

The Anti-Defamation League's (ADL) morbid obsession with attacking conservatives is played out in their definition.

False flag is a term used by conspiracy theorists to suggest that various world events and crises, such as terrorist attacks and mass shootings, were actually orchestrated by governments or sinister forces in furtherance of a political or social goal, such as gun control or sowing public fear.

However, at the end of their diatribe, they do correctly point out the historical background of false flags.

Historically, the term has been used to refer to a military or political operation carried out with the intention of blaming an opponent for it, often as a pretext for going to war.<sup>1</sup>

A more neutral response can be found on Wikipedia.

A false flag operation is an act committed with the intent of disguising the actual source of responsibility and pinning blame on another party. The term 'false flag' originated in the 16th century as an expression meaning an intentional misrepresentation of someone's allegiance. The term was famously used to describe a ruse in naval warfare whereby a vessel flew the flag of a neutral or enemy country in order to hide its true identity. The tactic was originally used by pirates and privateers to deceive other ships into allowing them to move closer before attacking them. It later was deemed an acceptable practice during naval warfare according to international maritime laws, provided the attacking vessel displayed its true flag once an attack had begun.

The term today extends to include countries that organize attacks on themselves and make the attacks appear to be by enemy nations or terrorists, thus giving the nation that was supposedly attacked a pretext for domestic repression or foreign military aggression. Similarly deceptive activities carried out during peacetime

---

<sup>1</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/4skevfmw>

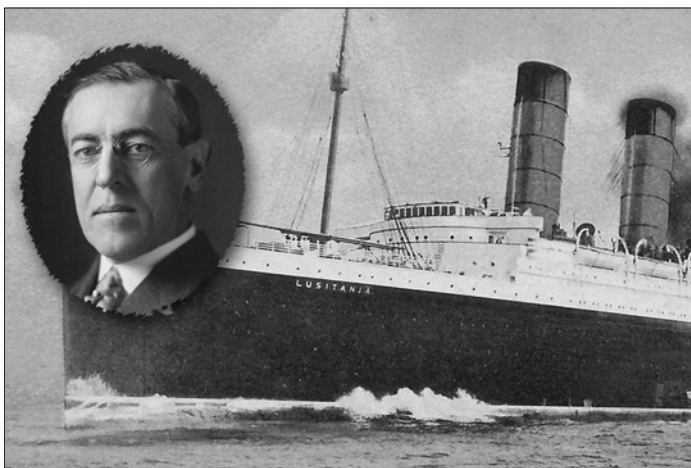

by individuals or nongovernmental organizations have been called false flag operations or a setup.<sup>2</sup>

Essentially, a false flag can be defined as a horrific, staged event that is blamed on a political enemy and used as a pretext to start a war or enact draconian laws in the name of national security.

SINKING OF THE LUSITANIA

World War I broke out on July 28, 1914 between the German led coalition of Austria, Hungary, and Turkey. Opposing them was France, Great Britain, Russia, Italy, and Japan. The fighting between the Central Powers and the Allies eventually stagnated into trench warfare in the West. Neither side was able to decisively win and it became a meat grinder for both sides.

The British wanted the United States to join the fight against the Central Powers, but this was strictly against the isolationist viewpoint of the American people, who did not want to get involved in the affairs of other countries. While the United States was neutral, we were sending arms to England, and Germany warned it would sink any ship that carried armaments to the Allies.

President Woodrow Wilson and his cabinet wanted to join the war, and so the Lusitania, a British ocean liner, in addition to its 1,959 passengers, was also loaded with war material. As a result, a German U-boat torpedoed and sank the ship on May 7, 1915. When the Lusitania sank, it took 1,198 passengers to a watery grave; among them were 128 Americans. This false flag event gave Wilson the fodder to advocate entering the war on the side of the Allies, although it would take almost two years to get the necessary votes to declare war on the Central Powers. This was done in a joint session of the United States Congress on April 16, 1917.

NAZI GERMANY ATTACKS POLAND

Adolf Hitler wanted to attack Poland in 1939, but an unprovoked attack would be universally condemned. As a result, he ordered a group of German soldiers to dress in Polish military uniforms, secretly cross into Poland, and then made their way back to the Polish/German border. The German soldiers guarding the border were told to stand back as this false flag unit advanced to a radio station not far from the border and took control of it.

German newspaper media had been told something was happening at the border and reporters watched German troops storm the station and drag out “Polish” soldiers. The newspapers produced headlines decrying Poland’s senseless attack. The propaganda was broadcast on German radio stations and Hitler, on cue, began demanding that Poland pay for this dastardly deed. This provided the justification needed when the German army rolled into Poland on September 1, 1939.

<sup>2</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/6spbdcca>

THE ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR

When war broke out in Europe on September 1, 1939, the isolationist mentality was still prevalent in America. The memory of The Great War was still fresh in their minds and no one wanted to join a dispute for which there was no good reason to get involved. Charles Lindberg, the famous aviator who flew nonstop from New York to Paris, was a strong anti-war leader. He became one of the most vocal leaders of the group, America First Committee (AFC), which was founded on September 4, 1940. It grew to some 850,000 members with 450 local chapters. Even though President Franklin Roosevelt was supplying military aid to Great Britain, there was massive resistance among the population not to become involved in another European war.

The Illuminati since its inception in 1776 has worked with a secretive cabal to foment wars that further the goal of a World Federation with a World Government and a leader that the Bible describes as the Man of Sin or Antichrist. There is no doubt that someone pressured Roosevelt to drag the United States into World War 2. How else can one explain his treasonous behavior that followed?

The navy was ordered to park a number of battleships at its Pearl Harbor base in Hawaii. The area where they were moored became known as battleship row. With so many capitol ships lined up in close proximity, thanks to the actions by President Roosevelt, this presented a lucrative target for anyone who had the audacity to strike this sitting duck fleet.

The era of the battleship had come and gone and the navy commanders recognized any war in the Pacific against the Japanese would be fought with aircraft carriers as the principal weapon. The Pacific fleet was comprised of the Lexington, Enterprise, and Saratoga carriers. The Lexington and Enterprise were at sea and the Saratoga was moored in San Diego. The Ranger, Yorktown, Wasp, and Hornet were assigned to the Atlantic fleet. Naval command was ordered to more or less abandon the WWI era battleships since the time of the aircraft carriers had arrived.

The Japanese had a spy network in Hawaii and they reported that eight battleships were moored with light cruisers and destroyers. They decided it was worth the gamble to attack the American navy at Pearl Harbor if they could eliminate the ships in one strike. A naval force of six aircraft carriers launched a swarm of planes on December 7, 1941. More than 350 fighter planes, dive bombers, and torpedo bombers flew toward Pearl Harbor and were discovered by a radar station on Oahu. Outside of the American radar men, no one else in the military was concerned with the news. This is why there was no organized resistance as the Japanese warplanes attacked the moored warships.

When the attack was over, eighteen warships were sunk or damaged, 188 American aircraft were destroyed, and a total of 2,403 sailors, marines and soldiers were killed with 1,178 military and civilians wounded. The news of the swift Japanese attack spread across America like a wildfire. It is hard not to be cynical with the timing as Congress declared war on Japan the next day. Four days later, the scope of the war declaration was broadened to include Germany.

THE GULF OF TONKIN INCIDENT

A civil war raged in Vietnam between South Vietnam and Communist North Vietnam. It was a bloody war that had been fought since the surrender of Japan in 1945, when France reclaimed Vietnam as its colony which it had held since 1883.

Vietnamese forces under the leadership of Ho Chi Minh had fought the Japanese during World War II. They wanted to gain independence and be free of France. The French government after the fall of Germany was determined to hang on to Indochina consisting of Laos, Cambodia, and Vietnam. In 1955, after the fall of the fortress Dien Bien Phu, peace negotiations took place and Vietnam was divided in two.

President Dwight Eisenhower used his power to support the southern government and American soldiers were ostensibly sent as “advisors.” But the South Vietnam was not strong enough to withstand the northern attacks and the call came to bring in sufficient troops to beat the communists. During the presidency of Lyndon Johnson, he wanted to use the army, navy and air force to clean out the communists in South Vietnam. However, since Congress has the sole authority to declare war, he did not have the constitutional power to send American troops into combat.

The navy was nevertheless ordered to carry out covert operations in the territorial waters of North Vietnam. The USS Maddox was conducting a signals intelligence patrol in the Gulf of Tonkin on August 2, 1964 when three North Vietnamese torpedo boats attacked the American warship. They were driven back by the guns of the destroyer and fighter jets from the USS Ticonderoga. The next day saw the USS Turner Joy join the Ticonderoga sailing close to the coast and the ships radioed that they were being attacked by North Vietnamese naval ships.

The “unprovoked” attack on the two American destroyers in international waters was reported to the White House and President Johnson expressed outrage that American warships sailing in international waters had been attacked. He immediately requested for Congress to authorize sending troops to South Vietnam. This would circumvent the Constitution and allow Johnson to enter the war without an official declaration. The “Gulf of Tonkin” resolution passed five days later in both chambers.

I have a personal memory of these events since I was living in Salt Lake City, Utah, having immigrated on June 1, 1963. I was working for the Utah State Road Commission by 1964. When the resolution passed, the draft for the armed forces ramped up dramatically. I remember President Johnson speaking on television that he was going to flood the jungles of South Vietnam with American troops and that the communists would once and for all be defeated.

By late 1964, thousands of men were being drafted every month and I received notice as well. I was in a backslidden condition, hated the commies, and was willing to go and kill a few of them. One week before I was to report for basic training, Johnson issued an order that married men were no longer eligible to be drafted. A year later, the war was not going well and the draft now included married men with no children; however, men over the age of 25 were still exempt. I turned twenty-six in November of that year and was exempted a second time.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara admitted in 1995 that the second Tonkin attack on the American warships never happened. Our involvement in the war was based on a lie. More than 58,000 soldiers died abroad for nothing; even more sad, just as many took their own lives after returning stateside. Some 153,303 soldiers were wounded and were maimed for life.

THE 9/11 ATTACK

Here is what I initially wrote following the September 11, 2001 attacks on the Pentagon and the World Trade Center.

The Devil and his demon princes have plotted their next step. The mosque in Jerusalem must go. The demon rulers of Islam and Judaism are told that they can have a war game, practice their military skills, and at the same time, have a lot of people killed and sent to hell. The demon ruler of Judaism does not have enough human "cannon fodder" to take on the demon ruler of Islam who rules some one billion people. With the Soviet Union temporarily out of commission and China not yet ready to be used, Lucifer decided that the demon ruler of Judaism can have the United States in his camp. There is one problem – the American people do not want to go to war. They have no desire to conquer the world. There are too many Christians in America, too many prayers spoken, too many strong churches. The Devil decrees, America must be provoked into a war and the provocation must be so dastardly, that the political leaders of America will agree that war is the only solution.

For years, a terrorist network has been built up with different leaders. Americans were killed in Lebanon, but that only drew some fire from the United States Navy. A couple of American embassies in Africa were blown up, but the American response was limited. A warship was attacked in Yemen, but we did not go to war. It was clear to the Devil that a huge blow to the heartland was necessary to provoke the American people.

Satan gave the order to the men in the World Government to attack America. The network of Osama bin Laden and his men who were ready to commit suicide for the cause of Islam. After some six years of planning, the bombing of the World Trade Center in New York and the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., took place. Immediately, the wrath of the American people and their president was kindled, and war on terrorists was declared.<sup>3</sup>

Reflecting on those events more than two decades later, here is what I actually believe took place. In June of 2001, Larry Silverstein, an American Jewish businessman, signed a 99-year lease on the World Trade Center complex, which encompassed the twin towers. Silverstein took out an insurance policy that included coverage against terrorism. When three of the buildings were destroyed three months later, Silverstein took the insurance company to court, claiming that he should be paid double, because there were two attacks. He won his case and was paid $4.6 billion dollars. A cynical person might conclude that Silverman was asked to purchase the buildings and he was part of the plot to bring the buildings down.

---

<sup>3</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/mryrwner>

Everyone in the United States has at some point seen building demolitions on television. There are companies that specialize in controlled explosions which weaken the structure and cause the building to collapse on its own footprint. These explosions begin with the upper part of the steel frame, and as they collapse, the next set of explosions undermines the next frame, and so it goes until the building collapses into a pile of rubble.

News coverage of the 9/11 attacks showed airplanes striking the upper part of the towers with an explosive fireball as the fuel tanks ignited from the impact. Black smoke billowed from the building. I saw the first tower collapse after one hour and 42 minutes and then the second tower collapsed 56 minutes after it was hit. The official story is that the jet fuel heated the structural supports to the point that when they weakened, it started a chain reaction which leveled each tower.

---

<sup>4</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/mryxyu9j>

Steel melts somewhere between 2,200 to 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit, so it would take something like thermite – which burns very hot at 4,532 degrees Fahrenheit – to create the type of damage seen in the World Trade Center towers.<sup>4</sup> The thermite would have sheared the steel supports like a welding torch and this is why the towers collapsed so rapidly. Five other buildings of the World Trade Center were destroyed and 2,603 people died as a result.

There were traces of thermite found in the World Trade Center dust from the surrounding buildings. This is not a natural occurring substance and there is no scenario other than terrorism in which it would be found. I thought it was strange that just a few days later, cleanup crews began removing the steel beams from the towers and sold as scrap to a company in China. Would investigators have found thermite fused to the structural steel? There is no other explanation for why the towers collapsed because jet fuel's burn temperature of 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit isn't hot enough to melt steel. This would have ruined the narrative sold to the American public and would go a long way to explaining why the steel was not inspected.

Just like in all other false flag operations, the drum beat of war began soon thereafter as Americans clamored for revenge. President George W. Bush declared war on terror and less than a month later we invaded Afghanistan to get the terrorists that had attacked our country.

History reveals this false flag attack was planned and executed to invade Iraq and remove Saddam Hussein from power. President Bush repeatedly touted Saddam's weapons of mass destruction and how it was necessary to remove that capability. The United States led a coalition of nations on March 20, 2003 to invade Iraq and destroy its armed forces. Saddam was captured after three years and executed by hanging on December 30, 2006.

The irony is that after years of searching, the United States had to admit that Hussein never had any weapons of mass destruction. The attack on Iraq was based on a lie. The World Government just wanted Saddam Hussein removed to destabilize the Middle East and make way for the Antichrist.

THE HIJACKERS

The organizer of the 9/11 attack was Osama bin Laden. He came from a wealthy family in Saudi Arabia. He joined the fight against the Soviet Union in 1979, who was protecting the communist Afghan government. This decade long war would ultimately see the Soviet Union's army and air force withdraw in defeat from Afghanistan.

The Afghan freedom fighters that initially fought against the Soviets became known as "Mujahideen." The United States saw an opportunity to weaken a rival, and beginning under the presidency of Ronald Reagan, the CIA used the Pakistan Inter-Services Intelligence to funnel money and weapons to the Mujahideen. It is estimated that the 12 billion dollars was forwarded for weapons and ammunition to support the rebellion. The United States even supplied and trained Mujahideen with stinger missiles that devastated Soviet aircraft toward the end.

Osama bin Laden decided to create his own organization in 1988. The name al-Qaeda would later become synonymous with the 9/11 terrorists. He left Afghanistan and returned to Saudi Arabia. When Iraq invaded Kuwait in 1990, he offered King Fahd the services of al-Qaeda but was turned down because American troops were going to defend against Saddam Hussein. Bin Laden protested and told the king that infidels were not to set foot on the holy ground of Saudi Arabia. He was subsequently expelled and stripped of his citizenship. He moved to Sudan in 1991 and stayed there until 1996. Strong American pressure caused Sudan to expel bin Laden and returned to Afghanistan.

While in Sudan, bin Laden used a portion of his construction company to build roads and other infrastructure. He lost his company after being forced out and the Sudanese confiscated all his holdings which was valued at $300 million. Bin Laden knew the pressure being brought against him was the result of the Americans and he developed a hatred for the United States and this is why he declared war in August of 1996.

The Soviet Union was no more, as the Russian Federation was struggling to survive after the collapse of communism. Russian weapons smuggler Viktor Bout came to Afghanistan and helped bin Laden run Ariana Afghan Airlines that was used to fly armament, cash, and opium to different nations. This economic recovery allowed bin Laden to build up al-Qaeda, that had also been involved in the fighting in the former state of Yugoslavia.

Bin Laden was a skilled businessman through his time in construction and he used his talent to build roads and infrastructure in Afghanistan. His skill as a terrorist was shown in a string of bombings in 1998 on American embassies in Tanzania and Kenya.<sup>5</sup>

HOW 9/11 WAS CARRIED OUT

The mastermind behind the 9/11 attack was Khalid Sheikh Mohammed from Kuwait. He joined the Muslim Brotherhood at age 16, and around 1982, he attended college in North Carolina and graduated in 1986 with a degree in agriculture. Khalid met Osama bin Laden in Afghanistan in 1996 and presented a unique plan for a team of al-Qaeda operatives to attack the "Great Satan" as America is known in the Muslim world. The men would enter the United States, attend flight school to learn how to fly airliners, and then hijack the planes in real life and fly them into certain targets. Bin Laden accepted the plan and began to set up the logistics to carry it out. During the next four years, meetings were held in Malaysia and Germany and al-Qaeda used its banking accounts in Dubai to pay for the operation.

---

<sup>5</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/3by952cb>

My personal belief is that the CIA was searching for a terror organization to attack the United States in order to force the nation into war. This is exactly what happened with the ire of the American people and the subsequent removal of Saddam Hussein. The CIA had done just that in Iran in 1953 when in conjunction with Great Britain's MI6, successfully organized a coup against Prime Minister Mohammad Mosaddegh. His only crime was wanting to evict the British so that Iran could control its own oil production.

Israel and the World Government wanted Saddam Hussein permanently removed and that would take a war. CIA operators made sure the 9/11 attack took place and they facilitated the operation to ensure the terrorists could operate freely without disturbance from the FBI while they trained.

Mohammad Atta was an Egyptian that came to Afghanistan in 1999 and met with Osama bin Laden, who was impressed by him and the group he had put together in Germany. Bin Laden appointed Atta to be the leader of the team that would strike the United States.

The nineteen al-Qaeda man team divided into four groups. They started arriving in the year 2000 a few at a time to avoid notice. Equipped with large sums of cash, they applied to different flight schools to learn the rudiments of flying.

Mohammad Atta received his pilot's license in December of 2000 and eventually three more men also received their pilot's licenses.

It should be noteworthy that 19 Arabic men lived in the United States for a year and a half and no one bothered to ask why they wanted to learn to fly from private flight schools. They were financially independent and used their leisure time to sightsee, visit Las Vegas, and other places that interested them. They were scattered from Florida to California; all of them knew they were going to commit suicide, so they just lived it up and had a good time.

Atta and his groups were professional terrorists and they executed their mission just like a skilled special operation force. Two teams travelled to Logan International Airport in Boston, Massachusetts and purchased tickets for American Airlines flight 11 and United Airlines flight 175. Another team boarded American Airlines flight 77 from Dulles International Airport in Virginia, just west of Washington D.C. The fourth team embarked on United Airlines flight 93 from Newark Liberty International Airport in Newark, New Jersey. All the flights were scheduled to leave around 8:00 a.m.

Once in the air, the hijackers acted swiftly and removed the pilots from the cockpits. The al-Qaeda pilots then used the planes to strike the twin towers of the World Trade Center in New York, the Pentagon just across the Potomac River from Washington D.C., and the fourth plane was retaken by passengers and crashed in the Pennsylvania countryside. The death toll for that fateful day stood at 2,996.

Less than a month later the United States led a coalition that invaded Afghanistan in search of justice. On March 19, 2003, the offensive was expanded to include the invasion of Iraq.

THE GOAL OF KABBALISTIC JEWS

I would say that most Christians do not have a criminal mind and therefore they have a hard time understanding just how depraved evil governments can be in sacrificing their own citizens to achieve a political purpose. I write this from a perspective that is based upon the teaching of the Bible concerning the end times. Jesus warned about a future Antichrist who will rule the world from a palace in Jerusalem.<sup>6</sup> We are also told that the Antichrist is going to be a Jew and a homosexual.<sup>7</sup> This Man of Sin will have his own religion which is based upon the Kabbalah.<sup>8</sup>

King Solomon developed the Kabbalistic doctrine and there have been Jewish men who have sought to establish their messiah (holy serpent). Thus, there are two different messianic movements among the Jews:

1. Those who embraced Jesus and established the Christian church after the day of Pentecost.
2. The Kabbalistic Jews who have been striving to establish their messiah for the past 3,000 years.

The Bible labels this false messiah as a person opposing Jesus, hence the name "Antichrist." Kabbalistic Jews set the precedent for a world government at the time of King Solomon even though they did not control the whole world. Each succeeding generation continued to operate in secrecy and influence political leaders to do their bidding. The goal is to force all nations to give up their sovereignty and submit to a World Federation which will be governed by the Man of Sin. They want to utilize the city of Jerusalem as their capital and rebuild the temple that was destroyed by the Romans where the Antichrist can be worshiped by the world's population.<sup>9</sup>

<sup>6</sup> Revelation 11:1-13; 13:1-8

<sup>7</sup> Daniel 11:36-39

The World Government was able to establish the political State of Israel in 1948 with the help of the United States and the Soviet Union to force the United Nations into officially accepting the newly created nation.

Thus far, I have listed the following false flag incidents:

1. Pulling the United States into World War 1 with the sinking of the Lusitania in 1915.
2. Nazi Germany's excuse to start a war with Poland in 1939.
3. The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941 which dragged the United States into World War 2.
4. The Tonkin incident that gave the United States the legal right to officially enter the Vietnam War in 1964.
5. The September 11, 2001 (9/11) attack and the subsequent invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq.

<sup>8</sup> 1 Kings 10:14, 18-20; 11:1-9; Revelation 13:16-18; Matthew 3:7; 12:34; Revelation 2:9; 3:9

<sup>9</sup> 2 Thessalonians 2:1-10

Who was behind all these false flag operations and what was the intended purpose? It was the World Government whose agenda is to establish a global federation. You might be wondering, who is this “world government?” The term is synonymous with the tyrannical administration set up by the Antichrist in the Book of Revelation. It became visible with the founding of the Illuminati in 1776 in Germany. Its first successful operation was the French Revolution in 1789, followed by a slew of wars reaching up to the present time. Each war is fought to change nations, destroy the nationalistic feelings of people, and the final war will create such devastation that the survivors will demand a world federation to ensure there are no further wars. “A global solution to a global problem” will be the slogan. I have written about this subject and you can find out more about it in The Kabbalah -- Book 5: The Rise of the Illuminati.<sup>10</sup>

2023 HAMAS ATTACK ON ISRAEL

It is no secret that the Palestinian Hamas (which is an Arabic acronym for “Islamic Resistance Movement”) hates the Israelis, seeing them as invaders for what took place after the political State of Israel was formed in 1948. Palestinians who had lived there for hundreds of years were uprooted to make room for Jews that also claimed the land as an inheritance. This attitude naturally fostered hate and a dividing wall reinforced the ill-gotten distribution taking place.

A horrific attack took place on October 7, 2023 when Hamas launched thousands of rockets from Gaza and infiltrated Israel by air, sea and land in a surprise attack. Thousands of armed fighters breached Israel’s border fence, stormed beaches with motorboats, and some flew in on paragliders.

The fighting started 6:30 a.m. when Hamas opened up with a barrage of rockets that targeted central and southern Israel. The sheer number of rockets overwhelmed the Iron Dome air defenses. Some of the major cities hit were Tel Aviv, Rehovot, Gedera and Ashkelon.

The Hamas ground offensive began around 7:40 a.m. with a force of more than 3,000 Hamas fighters. The first wave consisted of Hamas elite commandos using motorized hang-gliders to neutralize the Israeli command center and hundreds of their soldiers were killed; many were captured and later taken to Gaza as hostages. A number of high-ranking officers were among the ones taken into Gaza.

Once the Israeli military had been neutralized, thousands of regular Hamas fighters breached the border and spread out in different directions to target small villages, farms and also a music festival being held in the desert close to Gaza. Hamas indiscriminately slaughtered men, women and children. Many women were raped before they were shot. Those who were pregnant had their bellies ripped open and watched as their baby was stabbed to death. Some young children were beheaded. It was truly gruesome carnage. Some 200 Israeli civilians were taken to Gaza as hostages.

According to Israeli military officers, Hamas fighters were able to move into Israel because thousands of Israeli troops had moved to the West Bank to deal with a Palestinian uprising. The object of the Hamas ground attack was not to take land, but to kill as many civilians and soldiers and return with hostages as bargaining chips.

When it was over, 1,400 lay dead and hundreds of hostages were taken back to Gaza. The dead victims were shot, stabbed, beheaded and many were tortured before they got killed. The Israeli personnel that picked up the corpses were deeply traumatized when they saw the mangled bodies, some of them burned. Hamas wanted to inflict carnage that would traumatize the people of Israel.

---

<sup>10</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/bkxwtc3r>

A FALSE FLAG OPERATION?

Was the attack on Israel a false flag operation? I have already shown how the United States orchestrated the sinking of the Lusitania and the attack on Pearl Harbor to draw its people onto a war footing away from isolationism. If the United State was capable of such evil, why not other governments? Are we so naive to believe that other administrations are somehow more noble? The history of ancient Israel is recorded in the Old Testament and the accounts contained therein only prove my point. So yes, I do believe the modern leaders of Israel are capable of great evil.

How can we know that this was a false flag operation? I received the following report from Ted Broer on October 9, 2023.

This was a staged event - with government insider support!

1. - Israeli Defense Force (IDF) was ordered to STAND DOWN at the border! IDF air and ground forces did not respond for 6-8 hours, in spite of thousands of calls for help!
2. - Al Jazeera aired live stream operations of the attack, but the IDF supposedly remained oblivious for hours?
3. - Hamas paratroopers even parachuted into the towns in broad daylight completely unchallenged by the IDF!
4. - All automated military technology to detect and stop such an attack was not implemented or utilized!
5. - Israeli border town troops were removed and replaced with civil defense by citizens, who were then deliberately disarmed by the Israeli government only months ahead of the attack! So, the attackers would have no real resistance, when the IDF stand down was ordered. Only the very naive do not realize that people inside the USA's government knew about 911 before it happened, and those in Netanyahu's inner circle, Mossad, and the upper IDF's upper command, knew about this attack.

6. - Israel's government started and largely controls Hamas through funding and intelligence, just like the USA's Gov't. started and funded Al-Quida and ISIS.

7. - USA tax dollars taken to fund the Ukrainian war and supply arms, saw some of those arms go directly to Hamas. The Globalist's want war, and it looks like they will have it!

Could this lead to Jeremiah's prophecy against Damascus in Jeremiah 49:23-27? Or even further to Daniel's prophecy about the Antichrist in Daniel 9:27?

THE JERUSALEM POST

This report was corroborated by the Jerusalem Post on October 17, 2023 which was sourcing a documentary from Israeli TV channel N12.

IDF lookouts say their warnings about Hamas were ignored

As questions remain about how Israel failed to thwart Hamas's assault, IDF lookouts told N12 on Monday that they had repeatedly warned their commanders of unusual incidents along the border, but were ignored.<sup>11</sup>

“A day before everything happened, I saw people with maps,” said one lookout to N12. “They were looking at the fence and pointing at it. I told everyone: ‘Listen, something is going to happen. I see them planning things.’ I noticed that something was different on the front. I even told the person next to me in jest: ‘Listen, they’re going to storm our post.’ It just looked different.”

The lookout added that despite her warnings, her commanders “discounted” her concerns, telling her “ Hamas is just a bunch of punks, they won’t do anything.”

“I wasn’t seeing things; it wasn’t something usual. We saw a ton of exercises. We would always look at them as if it was Channel 12. It was fun. It was interesting that they were doing exercises.”

“We would look at this and we would say ‘f&%*, come on, one day is this is going to be on us, this s&*%, that we’re so indifferent about this?’”

“I remember their exercise by heart: they would shoot, lay on the ground, and throw a grenade. In the end that’s what happened to me. They shot at me, threw grenades at me.”

The lookout added that the farming activity in the area in the month before the attack “looked weird.”

“I filmed this, there is proof of this,” said the lookout to N12. “When I came to them and told them everything that was happening, they told me ‘No, it’s nothing, it’s farmers, they’re making a field there.’ I told them, ‘No it’s not a field. Look there’s a bunch of civilians, this looks off.’”

In the weeks leading up to Hamas’s assault on southern Israel, Palestinians conducted riots along the border on an almost daily basis, throwing explosives, burning tires, and causing damage to the border fence. A number of exercises were also conducted in the Gaza Strip to mark various anniversaries, including the anniversary of Israel’s disengagement from the Gaza Strip.

The lookouts of the Gaza Division were the first to detect the infiltration by Hamas terrorists into Israel and were quick to call up forces and to fire from a distance using a shooting system, the IDF Spokesperson’s Unit said on Sunday.<sup>12</sup>

AN EYEWITNESS REPORT

IDF corporal Maya Atilas was assigned to lookout duty along the Gaza wall and tells how she did her job despite being surrounded by Hamas.

Lookout tells ‘Post’ about the first nightmarish moments of invasion

One of the most dangerous and critical roles on the first day of the war was that of the IDF lookouts posted right on the Gaza border.

Large numbers of them were killed by motorized hang gliders, drones, and Hamas terrorists on foot who swarmed their posts before they could be saved by distant larger IDF forces.

Corp. Maya Atilas of the Border Defense Unit of the Gaza Division told The Jerusalem Post her terrifying story in which she was meters away

---

<sup>11</sup> IDF lookouts are soldiers manning bunkers along the border with Gaza. They monitor security cameras set up along the border fence. In case of an attack, these soldiers notify the IDF command center.

<sup>12</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/5n6vz93r>

from being killed, heard screams from nearby lookout posts which were destroyed, but somehow got the courage to push on and give IDF commanders critical real-time intelligence on the Hamas invaders.

Atilas said, "On shabbat, we were performing our rotating lookout guard duty starting at 5:00 a.m. There was the regular chatting about what food we wanted to eat and about our friends. Suddenly, at 6:30 a.m., the chaos started."

"I have seen lots of chaos from our lookout position, but these were bizarre scenes and I immediately had a feeling in my gut that something was very wrong," she said.

The corporal continued, "We saw around the fence and around the border which I was watching, terrorists everywhere and armed with every weapon. We could not have imagined this."

Next, she said, "We started to hear crying and yelling out 'terrorists!' and panic from our next-door lookout positions. So many situations were happening in parallel. At first you cannot even absorb it and you are just in a panic."

"I trembled and said to myself 'someone wake me up! This has never happened in the history of the State!' But then I started to understand: this is happening. I am in a war," she explained with a look of horror.

According to Atilas, she decided, "Then there was nothing else to do, I am here, it's my duty and my responsibility...Now I need to guard the combat fighters and need to try to function.

But the situation got worse and "shortly after, I saw terrorists enter our internal base area next to the lookout post we were inside of, and they came right up to our door. It was super scary because I could see the terrorists up close."

"I thought to myself, maybe I should just leave. I'm a woman. What do I need with being surrounded by terrorists?" she exclaimed.

But with a look of determination, she said, "Then I reminded myself again. No. I'm here. I will do this with all of my power and will fight. They need me and I need to achieve my mission despite all the difficulties."

"Then the terrorists tried to break into my lookout position." She said she could not explain why they did not succeed and called it "a miracle," since three of four lookout positions in the area were raided or bombed by Hamas.

Eventually, rallying IDF combat soldiers retook the IDF base area where they were stationed, but she said their situation was especially hairy for the first three hours until 9:30 a.m., and that they were not really safe for an agonizing 10 hours.

Part of the problem was that due to the Simchat Torah holiday weekend, most of the combat fighters were not present when Hamas' attack started.

But also, generally she, and many experts have agreed, that even at "full strength", the border was vastly undermanned.

Mid-battle, she said she and her other three lookout team members were constantly calling out new Hamas invaders to their commanders through IDF communications.

Those direct and even senior commanders were also calling into them to try to better cut through the confusion of the moment and better understand the scale of the invasion.

Despite the dangers “we did what they taught us to do,” calling out sometimes seven invaders at a time and sometimes 30 invaders at a time.

Afterwards, she felt the IDF would have easily let her switch to a lower risk position, but she insisted on staying, explaining, “It was personal for me that it was important to do, because also maybe someone say women would not be able to continue, but I couldn’t quit. No matter how hard it was to go back to the lookout post, I will continue.”<sup>13</sup>

INTELLIGENCE SERVICES

Every nation in the Middle East has its own intelligence service. The services from the United States, England, France, Russia, Israel and China dominate the field due to their access of spy satellites.

The American CIA has the largest number of satellites which provide constant overwatch and bring in pictures from the nations they monitor. Satellites have such advanced camera systems that it is possible to read a license plate.

For example, the CIA provides Ukraine with daily briefings on Russian military positions, enabling them to accurately pursue the shown targets. It is impossible for any nation to move soldiers and equipment without being seen on satellites. CIA satellites monitor the Middle east from stationary and orbiting satellites. They are also equipped with infrared cameras that make it very difficult to move troops and equipment at night without being seen.

Israel has its own satellite system which is run by the Mossad, the most effective spy network in the world. They conduct surveillance, but also assassinate political leaders or persons of military value. They have a strong network in Iran, and for the last 20 years, they have killed many of Iran’s top scientists and engineers who were working on their nuclear program. Israel has a second intelligence service known as Shin Bet which is responsible for securing the homeland.

The Gaza strip is under constant surveillance by Israel and they employ cameras, spies on the ground, drones, and satellites. Thus, it would have been impossible for Hamas to plan, train and execute such a large military action on October 7 without being picked up by Israeli intelligence.

A WARNING FROM EGYPT

The Times of Israel quotes an Egyptian intelligence official that claims Israel ignored repeated warnings something was going to happen.

Mounting questions over Israel’s massive intelligence failure to anticipate and prepare for a surprise Hamas assault were compounded Monday when an Egyptian intelligence official said that Jerusalem had ignored repeated warnings that the Gaza-based terror group was planning “something big” — which included an apparent direct notice from Cairo’s intelligence minister to the prime minister.

The Egyptian official said Egypt, which often serves as a mediator between Israel and Hamas, had spoken repeatedly with the Israelis about “something big,” without elaborating.

He said Israeli officials were focused on the West Bank and played down the threat from Gaza. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu’s government is made up of supporters of West Bank settlers who have demanded a security crackdown there in the face of a rising tide of violence over the last 18 months.

---

<sup>13</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/2p8zx44f>

“We have warned them an explosion of the situation is coming, and very soon, and it would be big. But they underestimated such warnings,” the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because he wasn’t authorized to discuss the content of sensitive intelligence discussions with the media, told The Associated Press.

Netanyahu denied receiving any such advance warning, saying in the course of an address to the nation Monday night that the story was “fake news.”

“No early message came from Egypt and the prime minister did not speak or meet with the intelligence chief since the establishment of the government — not indirectly or directly,” his office said in a statement earlier in the day.

In one of the said warnings, Egypt’s Intelligence Minister General Abbas Kamel personally called Netanyahu only 10 days before the massive attack that Gazans were likely to do “something unusual, a terrible operation,” according to the Ynet news site.

Unnamed Egyptian officials told the site they were shocked by Netanyahu’s indifference to the news and said the premier told the minister the military was “submerged” in troubles in the West Bank.

However, Israel was not only reportedly ignoring clear warnings from its allies.

For Palestinians in Gaza, Israel’s eyes are never very far away. Surveillance drones buzz constantly in the skies. The highly secured border is awash with security cameras and soldiers on guard. Intelligence agencies work sources and cyber capabilities to draw out information.

But Israel’s eyes appeared to have been closed in the lead-up to the surprise onslaught by the Hamas terror group, which broke through Israeli border barriers and sent hundreds of terrorists into Israel to carry out a brazen attack that killed over 700 people and wounded over 2,000.

Israel’s intelligence agencies have gained an aura of invincibility over the decades because of a string of achievements. Israel has foiled plots seeded in the West Bank, allegedly hunted down Hamas operatives in Dubai and has been accused of killing Iranian nuclear scientists in the heart of Iran. Even when their efforts have stumbled, agencies like the Mossad, Shin Bet and military intelligence have maintained their mystique.

But the weekend’s assault, which caught Israel off guard on a major Jewish holiday, plunges that reputation into doubt and raises questions about the country’s readiness in the face of a weaker but determined foe. Over 48 hours after the start of the attack, Hamas terrorists continued to battle Israeli forces inside Israeli territory, and over 100 Israelis were in Hamas captivity in Gaza.

“This is a major failure,” said Yaakov Amidror, a former national security adviser to Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu. “This operation actually proves that the [intelligence] abilities in Gaza were no good.”

Amidror declined to offer an explanation for the failure, saying lessons must be learned when the dust settles.

Rear Adm. Daniel Hagari, the chief military spokesman, acknowledged the army owes the public an explanation. But he said now is not the time. "First, we fight, then we investigate," he said.

Some say it is too early to pin the blame solely on an intelligence failure. They point to a wave of low-level violence in the West Bank that shifted some military resources there and the political chaos roiling the country over steps by Netanyahu's far-right government to overhaul the judiciary. The controversial plan has threatened the cohesion of the IDF, seen as the people's army.

But the apparent lack of prior knowledge of Hamas's plot will likely be seen as a prime culprit in the chain of events that led to the deadliest attack against Israelis in decades.

Israel withdrew troops and settlers from the Gaza Strip in 2005, stripping it of a close handle on the happenings in the territory. But even after Hamas overran Gaza in 2007, Israel appeared to maintain its edge, using technological and human intelligence.

It claimed to know the precise locations of Hamas leadership and appeared to prove it through the targeted killing of terror leaders in surgical strikes, sometimes while they slept in their bedrooms. Israel has known where to strike underground tunnels used by Hamas to ferry around fighters and arms, destroying miles (kilometers) of the concealed passageways.

Despite those abilities, Hamas was able to keep its plan under wraps. The ferocious attack, which likely took months of planning and meticulous training and involved coordination among multiple terror groups, appeared to have gone under Israel's intelligence radar.

Amir Avivi, a retired Israeli general, said that without a foothold inside Gaza, Israel's security services have come to rely increasingly on technological means to gain intelligence. He said terrorists in Gaza have found ways to evade that technological intelligence gathering, giving Israel an incomplete picture of their intentions.

"The other side learned to deal with our technological dominance and they stopped using technology that could expose it," said Avivi, who served as a conduit for intelligence materials under a former military chief of staff. Avivi is president and founder of Israel Defense and Security Forum, a hawkish group of former military commanders.

"They've gone back to the Stone Age," he said, explaining that terrorists weren't using phones or computers and were conducting their sensitive business in rooms specially guarded from technological espionage or going underground.

But Avivi said the failure extends beyond just intelligence gathering and Israel's security services failed to put together an accurate picture from the intelligence they were receiving, based on what he said was a misconception surrounding Hamas's intentions.

Israel's security establishment has in recent years increasingly seen Hamas as an actor interested in governing, seeking to develop Gaza's economy and improving the standard of living of Gaza's 2.3 million people. But Avivi and others say the truth is that Hamas, which openly calls for Israel's destruction, sees that aim as its priority.

Israel in recent years has allowed up to 18,000 Palestinian laborers from Gaza to work in Israel, where they can earn a salary about 10 times higher than in the impoverished coastal enclave. The security establishment saw that carrot as a way to maintain relative calm.

In practice, hundreds if not thousands of Hamas men were preparing for a surprise attack for months, without that having leaked," wrote Amos Harel, a defense commentator, in the daily Haaretz. "The results are catastrophic."

Israel has also been preoccupied and torn apart by Netanyahu's judicial overhaul plan. Netanyahu had received repeated warnings by his defense chiefs, as well as several former leaders of the country's intelligence agencies, that the divisive plan was chipping away at the cohesion of the country's security services.

Martin Indyk, who served as a special envoy for Israeli-Palestinian negotiations during the Obama administration, said internal divisions over the legal changes was an aggravating factor that contributed to the Israelis being caught off guard.

"That roiled the IDF in a way that was, I think, we discovered was a huge distraction," he said.<sup>14</sup>

EGYPT WARNED ISRAEL

Israel was warned by Egypt on October 4, some three days before the deadly violent border raid, that something was about to happen.

Israel was warned by Egypt of potential violence three days before Hamas' deadly cross-border raid, a US congressional panel chairman has said.

House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee head Michael McCaul told reporters of the alleged warning.

Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu described the reports as "absolutely false".

Israeli intelligence services are under scrutiny for their failure to prevent the deadliest attack by Palestinian militants in Israel's 75-year history.

"We know that Egypt has warned the Israelis three days prior that an event like this could happen," Mr McCaul told reporters following a closed-door intelligence briefing on Wednesday for lawmakers about the Middle East crisis, according to AFP news agency.

"I don't want to get too much into classified, but a warning was given," the Texas Republican added. "I think the question was at what level."

An Egyptian intelligence official told the Associated Press news agency this week that Cairo had repeatedly warned the Israelis "something big" was being planned from Gaza.

---

<sup>14</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/yeyjuxhm>

“We have warned them an explosion of the situation is coming, and very soon, and it would be big. But they underestimated such warnings,” said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The Cairo official said Israeli officials had played down the threat from Gaza, instead focusing on the West Bank.

Sir Alex Younger, who served as chief of the UK’s foreign intelligence agency between 2014 and 2020, said Hamas fighters were able to carry out their attack on 7 October due to “institutional complacency” in Israel.

He told BBC Radio 4’s Today Podcast there may have been an assumption by Israel that Hamas was not interested in a new conflict, so any information that contradicted that was discounted.

“It is my assumption - though I’m not on the inside - that there would be data breaking through that could have been interpreted differently and certainly would be with hindsight,” he said.

He added that complacency could have been compounded by an over-reliance on technological means to monitor Gaza, leading to a false sense of security.

According to the Financial Times, quoting two unnamed officials familiar with the matter, there was no hard intelligence of a specific attack.

On Wednesday, Mr. Netanyahu described any suggestion that Israel had received a specific warning in advance of the deadly incursion as “totally fake news”.

Egypt - which controls who crosses its border with Gaza - often serves as a mediator between Israel and Hamas.

More than 1,500 militants stormed through the Gaza security barrier in a coordinated land, air and sea attack on Saturday.

The death toll in Israel from the Hamas attacks has reached 1,200. More than 1,000 people have been killed by Israeli air strikes on Gaza.<sup>15</sup>

THE SWEDISH NEWSPAPER AFTONBLADET

The Aftonbladet is one of several evening daily newspapers in Sweden. It was founded in 1830 as an opposition paper to the Swedish government. In the 1950s the paper was purchased by the Swedish trade union (LO) and it became the voice of the Social Democratic Party. Today the paper is majority owned by the Norwegian media group “Schibsted” and the trade union maintains minority ownership. Even the paper is owned by a Norwegian media group, it is still the voice for the Swedish Social Democratic Party. It has been historically been critical of Israel and takes a pro-Palestinian stand. The paper is a strong promoter of sexual promiscuity and features articles every day that promote sexual activities between non-married people with provocative pictures.

I monitor this left-wing paper to see what the socialist/communist are up to, and when I discovered the following article about the war in Israel, I wanted to include it to show a different viewpoint of the October 7 attack on Israel. October 7 was indeed a false flag operation. Since the article was written in Swedish, I have translated it into English. It was published on October 13, 2023.

---

<sup>15</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/c4th7fsx>

The sudden attack on Israel by Hamas in the morning of October 7, succeeded to surprise the Israeli intelligence operations and the rest of the world.

Videos and pictures from the middle of September is showing how Hamas was conducting a practice run of the invasion, that was to follow some three weeks later. According to Associated Press (AP) the training exercise was done openly, which could be seen on satellites as well as on Israeli drones.

Hamas publicized on September 12, 2023, a propaganda video two minutes long, showing how Hamas fighters blew up a mock up of an Israeli border station and then how the fighters drive through the border station in pick-ups and then arrive in a mock-up of a small Israeli town. They go from building-to-building shooting at full size poster of people.

The exercise was code named "Strong Pillar." During the practice the Hamas fighters were wearing the same uniforms as when the real attack took place. AP reported that there were mock-ups of the Israeli border surveillance towers, and how the Hamas fighters blew them up. They also practiced how to knock out the Israeli communication system on the border.

It is obvious that this large-scale war game was picked up on satellites as well as on Israeli drones flying over Gaza.

Operation "Strong Pillar" was not new, this war game has been played in 2020, 21 and 22. This was the fourth war game and it came four months earlier than the three previous ones. This could not have gone unnoticed by the Israeli intelligence services.

Michael Milstein, a retired Israeli intelligence officer, stated to AP that the military leadership in Israel had full knowledge of this last war game by Hamas. Milstein also stated that Israel knew about Hamas drones, the traps they had prepared, that there would be cyberattacks and about the special forces.

Israeli intelligence officers had told the news site "Axios" that the Israeli intelligence services knew in the evening of October 6, 2023, that there had been strange activities going on in Gaza. The decision was made by the Israelis to wait and see to the next day, when they would have more information.

After the attack sources within the Israeli intelligence community admitted that they should have issued a warning on a possible pending attack on October 6, 2023.<sup>16</sup>

REPORT FROM THE JERUSALEM POST

The following article was published in the Jerusalem Post on October 12, 2023.

Four out of five Jewish Israelis believe the government and Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu are to blame for the mass infiltration of Hamas terrorists into Israel and the massacre that followed, a new Dialog Center poll released on Thursday found.

---

<sup>16</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/32pad3vd>

An overwhelming majority – 86% of respondents, including 79% of coalition supporters, said the surprise attack from Gaza is a failure of the country's leadership, while a staggering 92% said the war is causing anxiety.

Furthermore, almost all the respondents (94%) believe the government must bear some responsibility for the lack of security preparedness that led to the assault, with over 75% saying the government holds most of the responsibility.

The survey, which polled 620 Israeli Jews from across the country, also found that a majority of respondents believed Netanyahu should resign following the conclusion of Operation Swords of Iron.

A slim majority of 56% said Netanyahu must resign at the end of the war, with 28% of coalition voters agreeing with this view, and 52% of respondents also expect Defense Minister Yoav Gallant to resign.

In addition, most respondents said they do not trust the government to lead the war on Gaza, though the poll was conducted before former defense minister Benny Gantz joined an emergency unity government on Wednesday evening.<sup>17</sup>

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

Toward the end of World War II, the German high command became desperate as the Russians closed in from the east and the Americans and their allies were closing in from the south and the west. German soldiers were given amphetamines and told to take a pill before a battle. The effect of the narcotic caused them to be filled with energy and not fear death. The formerly fatigued men became raging maniacs and the Americans could not figure why the German soldiers fought like enraged tigers until they died. When American teams cleared a battlefield of dead bodies, they found that the dead Germans had a supply of amphetamine pills in their pockets.

As the Israeli army teams started to clear areas of dead Hamas fighters, they found all of them had been high on a drug known as Captagon. This was the drug of choice given to ISIS fighters during the reign of the Islamic Caliphate and why it was so difficult for American and Iraqi troops to defeat drug stimulated forces of ISIS.

A person high on Captagon is highly alert, but they also have no fear of death and their emotions are deadened. This explains a little why Hamas fighters brutally slaughtered men, women, and children. The drug had demonized them and they enjoyed seeing the blood flow as they shot and maimed those who could not defend themselves.

Hamas terrorists who carried out a surprise attack on October 7 were found to be under the influence of Captagon, a synthetic amphetamine-type stimulant that has been clandestinely produced in southern Europe and trafficked through Turkey to the consumer markets on the Arabian Peninsula, as reported by Nir Dvori of Channel 12.

The pills were recovered from the pockets of many terrorists who lost their lives on Israeli soil. This stimulant drug, also known as the "cocaine for the poor," allowed the terrorists to commit heinous acts with a sense of calmness and indifference. Simultaneously, it kept them highly alert for extended periods and suppressed their appetite.

---

<sup>17</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/58w9bner>

Captagon gained notoriety in 2015 when it was discovered to be used by ISIS fighters to suppress fear prior to carrying out terrorist operations. As the influence of terrorist organizations like ISIS diminished, Lebanon and Syria took the reins and began producing and distributing the drug on a large scale.

Gaza, in particular, became a popular market for the drug, especially among addicted young individuals.

Captagon belongs to the amphetamine family and was initially developed to address attention disorders, narcolepsy, and depression. Despite its highly addictive nature and potential for inducing psychotic reactions, it continues to enjoy popularity in the Middle East due to its affordability and ease of manufacturing. In poorer countries, the drug can be purchased for a dollar or two, while in wealthier nations, it may cost up to 20 dollars per pill.

Its primary effects include arousing feelings of euphoria, reducing the need for sleep, suppressing appetite, and providing sustained energy.

According to medical professionals in Lebanon and Syria, Captagon is not only prevalent among fighters but is also frequently used by desperate civilians residing in conflict zones.

Once a source of revenue for ISIS members through drug smuggling, Captagon has now become a major source of income for Syria and is actively supported by Hezbollah.

Around two years ago, an investigation conducted by The New York Times revealed that individuals associated with Syrian dictator Bashar Assad, including family members, had established a thriving industry for the production of Captagon.

This industry, which involves the participation of Hezbollah, is overseen by Assad's brother and serves as a prosperous enterprise amidst the ruins of the ongoing civil war that has plagued Syria for over a decade.

The profits generated from the drug trade in Syria exceed those gained from legitimate exports.

Reliable estimates suggest that Captagon's exports from Syria alone reached a minimum of $3.5 billion in 2020 – a figure five times greater than the combined value of Syria's legal export industries, estimated at just over $700 million.

Experts offering their assessments believe that these projections are speculative and that the actual market value is likely much higher. For example, in Saudi Arabia, it is estimated that consumption of Captagon surpasses 600 million pills annually, generating a market value of at least $9 billion to $12 billion dollars every year.

The drug's reach extends beyond Saudi Arabia, with significant seizures of Captagon reported in Italy, Greece, Malaysia, and Egypt. In Jordan, it is readily available at low prices, making it increasingly popular among underprivileged youth, including those of school age. Without a doubt, the prevalence of Captagon continues to rise each year.

In December 2021, Kuwaiti authorities seized nine million Captagon pills hidden in a shipment of oranges. Just a week prior, Dubai authorities intercepted the smuggling of 1.5 tons of Captagon pills, worth approximately $380 million, concealed within a cargo of lemons.

Last year alone, more than 250 million Captagon pills were thwarted from being smuggled, representing an 18-fold increase compared to four years ago. These figures only account for the shipments that were seized, leaving room to speculate that the actual smuggling quantities are much higher. Reports have previously suggested that the drug has also made its way onto the streets of Israel, where it is sold for around NIS<sup>18</sup> 50 per pill.<sup>19</sup>

SUMMARY

I started to work on this article October 17 and I am finishing the summary on October 19, 2023. During the days that I have been working to write this, there has been much additional activity in the Middle East.

Israel decided to call up 300,000 army reserves in response to Hamas' attack, and it is obvious that the original plan of the World Government to eradicate Hamas is not going to happen soon as the Middle East is in uproar. The horrific massacre of men, women and children on Monday the 16th of October made the western world rally to the defense of Israel. The leaders of Hamas are terrific at propaganda. When one of their missiles malfunctioned and landed on a hospital parking lot, they turned to social media to blame Israel, whom they said had bombed a hospital and killed nearly 500 women and children. The western media repeated this latest sensational "news," and in just a few hours, millions were on the streets in different Arab capitals. Hamas' use of an errant missile strike on October 18 effectively created a diversion from their slaughter of 1,400 and the kidnapping of hundreds more eleven days earlier. This put enormous pressure on the political leaders in these respective nations to take a stand against Israel.

WHAT IS GOING TO HAPPEN?

Most people look to the mainstream media for answers, but they are merely talking heads that offer anecdotal commentary that is entertaining but unreliable. The major powers of the Middle East are the archons (fallen angels) that Satan has set over each nation.<sup>20</sup> Satan is actively working to consolidate his power over each nation in order to bring humanity into his control for the future World Federation. The ruler of that federation who will reign from Jerusalem is described in the Bible as the Beast, Man of Sin, and the Antichrist.<sup>21</sup>

The archons love wars and the world to them is like a chess board. The playing pieces are nations and individuals, and with the Devil's permission, they are allowed to compete against each other. The Middle East has seen warfare for the last 4,000 years with some of the events recorded in the Bible. The first war recorded took place when Abraham arrived to the land of Canaan and his personal soldiers defeated the army of four city kings to rescue his nephew.<sup>22</sup>

Israel waged war against the nations living in Canaan during the time of Joshua. During the times of Judges, there were a number of nations attacking Israel, the chief of them was the Philistines. King Saul was constantly warring during his reign and the Philistines were his arch enemy. King David was also a warrior king until shortly before his death. King Solomon had peace during his 40 years reign, but from that time onward, war never left the Middle East.

---

<sup>18</sup> Shekel, Israeli currency

<sup>19</sup> <https://tinyurl.com/3s56ks5n>

<sup>20</sup> Daniel 10:12-21

<sup>21</sup> Revelation 11:1-12; 13:1-8

<sup>22</sup> Genesis 14:1-16

The archons acted like the gladiator owners, who if they were rich, could own an entire team. The ancient players were the Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, Syrians, Egyptians, Greeks, and the Romans. In the seventh century, a single archon seized and maintained control of the Middle East. Around 1354, he developed a new empire called the Ottomans who would go on to rule the Middle East until 1918 when they were defeated in World War 1. The Muslim archon ceded power to other archons when the region was divided into the separate nations of Lebanon, Syria, Palestine, Jordan, Iraq, Iran, and Saudi Arabia, plus some small emirates on the southern side of the Persian Gulf.

Now there is a new combination with Persia controlling Lebanon, Syria, the West Bank, and the Gaza strip. The archon over Persia remembers his glory days from some 2,400 years ago when he ruled the Middle East through the Persian Empire.

Satan is working toward the master plan of creating a world federation with a capital at Jerusalem. There is no room for bickering among humans in this federation, nor is there room for any other religion but the one espoused by the Kabbalah. Lucifer has been working on this project since he was able to convert King Solomon to faith in the serpent messiah.

The archon over Persia has lost control over the people and their rulers in Iran. Their goal is to exterminate all Jews in Israel. This is the sordid mess we see playing out today. This attack by Persia and its allies will ultimately end with nuclear war.

Israel has five German made diesel/electric submarines. Their home port is Haifa and two are always at sea; one in the Mediterranean and the other in the Indian ocean south of Saudi Arabia. They are equipped with nuclear weapons, and just like the U.S. navy has submarines with nuclear capability on patrol, they too exist to deter an enemy from attacking. Israel also has nuclear bombs carried by aircraft. They have made it known to all Muslim governments that they will use them if threatened with annihilation.

It is currently a game of chicken being played out in the Middle East. The ideal outcome is for one player to yield, thereby avoiding the worst outcome if neither yields, but individuals try to avoid it out of pride and in so doing not look like a chicken. Each player taunts the other to increase the risk of shame in yielding. However, when one player yields, the conflict is avoided, and the game essentially ends. This can be especially messy when it is nation versus nation. The war will certainly widen if the Mullahs of Iran underestimate Israel's resolve. If they push too deep territorially, there will be a nuclear war, and Iran and Lebanon will be no more.

You might be wondering how I can be so dogmatic about my beliefs. I firmly believe in the Bible and the revelation Jesus provided to the apostle John around AD 90. The Son of God stated there will be an Antichrist and False Prophet who will rule out of Israel. I trust implicitly in the Word of God. Every prophecy will be fulfilled. The words of the Bible are eternal.

*“For ever, O LORD, thy word is settled in heaven.”
(Psalm 119:89)*

“Seek ye the LORD while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the LORD, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the LORD. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater.”
(Isaiah 55:6-10)