PART 4: UNTO THE ANGEL OF THE CHURCH OF PERGAMOS

CHAPTER TWO: THE CITY OF PERGAMOS (PERGAMUM in Greek)

Jesus identifies this city as “The Seat of Satan.”

After the death of Alexander the Great, the city of Pergamos became an important city when it became the capital of a new independent state. The last king of this small kingdom in Asia Minor (now Turkey) was Attalus III who died in 133 B.C. and bequeathed his territory to Rome. Pergamos was then made the seat of the Roman government for the entire province of Asia and its population grew to around 200,000 persons at the time of Christ.

Pergamos became one of the most beautiful Greek cities in the Hellenistic Age. It had a huge library, large market place, gymnasium, amphitheater, theater, race track, etc.

The city had a number of temples to different deities. The first temple of Imperial cult was built in 29 B.C. in honor of Rome and Caesar Augustus. Here are the rest of the temples in the city:

The temple of ASCLEPIUS, the serpent god, who presided over the art of healing, and whose serpents were one of the city’s emblems. This god was presented in paintings and sculpture as a man, standing dressed in a long cloak with bare breast and holding a staff with a serpent coiled around it. This god was said to be the son of Apollo and the nymph Coronis, and when the chief god Zeus feared that Asclepius was going to make men immortal, he slew him with a lightning bolt.

The temple of HERA, daughter of the gods Cronus and Rhea, also the sister and wife of Zeus, the chief ruling god. She was worshiped as the queen of heaven, and the goddess of marriage and of women.

The temple of DEMETER, another daughter of Cronus and Rhea and a sister of Zeus. She was worshiped as the goddess of agriculture.

The temple of ATHENA NICEPHORUS, the goddess of war. She was also known as MINERVA, which today is the goddess of California, with her picture on the state seal.

The great temple of ZEUS, the ruler of all the Greek gods on mount Olympus.

To fully understand this satanic set up, see sermons RLJ-770, 771 and 772 with the title “As the Days of Noah.”

Here is some frightening information that shows that the demonic world is real and having great power over human events. The German engineer and archaeologist Karl Humann (1839-1896) worked in Turkey during the years 1878-86 directing railroad construction for the Turkish government and also as an archeologist. He did extensive excavations in Pergamos under the direction of the Berlin Museum. He discovered the great altar of Zeus and brought back part of the altar and its surviving reliefs. The altar was restored and displayed in the Pergamos Museum in Berlin.

When the communists in the Soviet Union were going to build the mausoleum of Lenin in the Red Square at Moscow, the architect (Aleksej Sjtusev) used the main altar of Zeus in Pergamos as a model for the new building. Thus, the mausoleum of Lenin is a walk-in replica of the old Zeus temple in Pergamos where Jesus said that the seat of Satan was at that time.

In 1944, a German military detachment traveled to Turkey and removed additional parts of altars from Pergamos and erected this in Berlin as a last ditch effort to turn the tide of the war. When the Soviet army entered Berlin, special forces retrieved this altar and secretly moved it to Moscow where it was set up in Lenin's mausoleum.

Since both Nazism and Communism are deeply involved in Satanism, it is obvious that both groups tried to invoke the presence of Satan himself in order to have more power.

I believe that for a short time Satan resided in the air over Berlin, and that he later moved to Moscow. Someday he will set up his seat in the city of Jerusalem.
